Ingredients

- Glug olive oil
- 1 onion, chopped
- 4-6 cloves garlic, chopped
- 1 Tbsp (15ml) cumin seeds
- 1.5kg cubed lamb (we used lamb leg chops)
- 2 tsp (10ml) ground cinnamon
- 1 Tbsp (15ml) chilli flakes
- 2 Tbsp (30ml) ground coriander
- Salt and milled pepper
- 1 punnet (250g) fresh Medjool dates, chopped
- ½ cup (125ml) red wine vinegar
- 1 packet (400g) puff pastry, defrosted

Method

- 1. Heat olive oil in a pan over medium heat.
- 2. Sauté onion until soft, about 5-8 minutes.
- 3. Add garlic and cumin seeds and fry until fragrant, about 1–2 minutes.
- 4. Tip in lamb, cinnamon, chilli flakes and coriander. Season.
- 5. Stir in dates and red wine vinegar.
- 6. Cook for 10 minutes, stirring regularly.
- 7. Pour over enough water to cover the meat and cook on medium heat for $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 hours, with lid on, until lamb is tender, stirring occasionally and ensuring lamb does not stick to the base (check water and top up if needed).
- 8. Adjust seasoning and cook uncovered for another 45 minutes to an hour.
- 9. Preheat oven to 200°C.

- 10. Gently roll out puff pastry and cut slightly bigger than a 25–30cm round ovenproof dish.
- 11. Spoon filling into dish and cover with pastry "lid".
- 12. Secure the edges by pinching closed and cut off excess pastry.
- 13. Make a small incision in the centre using a knife.
- 14. Brush pastry with melted butter or whisked egg.
- 15. Bake for 30–35 minutes, or until golden brown.

GOOD IDEA

For mini pies, line a muffin pan with pastry and spoon in filling, top with pastry lids and bake until golden-brown.
